Hello Everyone: Happy 2020~! We have had another successful holiday drive with Tis the Season. I would like to thank our community first responders, Coventry Police, Hopkins Hill, Anthony and Western Coventry Fire Districts and West Greenwich Firefighters. The firefighters assisted us with the annual boot day in November which helps us gather funds to purchase toys, clothing and food for families in need here in Coventry and West Greenwich. Our police officers assisted in donations and fill a cruiser in early December which also supported our Tis the Season Program. Thank you to our local businesses, Coventry School District, local churches and families who adopted families during the holidays to make sure they had an enjoyable Christmas.

2020 is the Year of Healthy Aging

It is an exciting time here at the Resource and Senior Center as we offer programs that focus on your health.

This year the Coventry Resource and Senior Center will be focusing on physical, social and emotional wellness programs. Yoga, Zumba, Tai Chi, Arthritis Exercise classes, chronic pain self-management and of course many social activities to keep people connected.

In the spring we will resume our walking programs, bocce league (on our new court) and even croquet. We are excited to be offering horticultural therapy when we build the new greenhouse so we all can develop our green thumbs.

Please join us for our first Breakfast of 2020 here at Wood Street
Our dining room will be open on Friday January 17, 2020 from 8:00am-9:30am for our monthly breakfast provided by the Coventry High School Culinary Program.

Our staff would like to wish you all Happy Healthy New Year and we look forward to serving you in 2020! Until next time: Enjoy your Family, Friends and Stay Well!

All My Best, -Bob Robillard Jr., LMHC-Director

Tai Ji Quan: Moving for Better Balance® (TJQMBB)
An exercise and fall prevention training

General Information:
Tai Ji Quan: Moving for Better Balance® (TJQMBB) is an evidence-based fall prevention program derived from a contemporary routine known as Simplified 24-Form Tai Ji Quan. TJQMBB is an enhancement of traditional Tai Ji Quan training and performance as it transforms martial arts movements into a therapeutic regimen aimed at improving postural stability, awareness and mindful control of body positioning in space, functional walking, movement symmetry and coordination, range of motion around the ankle and hip joints, and lower-extremity muscle strength.

Program Objective:
To improve strength, balance, mobility and daily functioning, and prevent falls in older adults and individuals with balance disorders.

Intended Target Population
The primary focus is on community-dwelling older adults and people with a history of falls, balance disorders, leg muscle weakness, abnormal gait or...

 benefits of TJQMBB
- Designed to improve balance and reduce the likelihood of falling
- Research shows that TJQMBB is an effective way for older adults to reduce their risk of falling and to maintain their independence
- Reduces older adult’s risk of falling
- According to the National Council on Aging (NCOA)1 in 3 adults over 65 fall each year
- NCOA also reports that 20 – 30% of falls result in moderate to severe injuries i.e. bruises, hip fractures and head traumas.

Contact us today for more information or to register for the class!

‘TIS THE SEASON
‘Tis the Season is a volunteer organization serving families in the towns of Coventry and West Greenwich. It was established in 1992 with its main focus to provide a joyful holiday season for all, especially children. ‘Tis the Season operates through the generosity of the community. Some members of the community have small fundraisers. Others prefer to donate money directly. The Fire Departments graciously conduct an annual “Boot Day” to support ‘Tis the Season. These funds are used to purchase needed food and clothing. Local schools and churches hold food drives. Other clubs and organizations conduct toy drives all to benefit ‘Tis the Season. Still other families, businesses, schools and other local groups choose to “Adopt a Family” at the holidays. Call 822-9178 for more information, how to request assistance or how to donate.

5 Alternatives to Traditional New Year's Resolutions

These alternatives could help you crush your goals.

(Posted Dec 27, 2017 www.psychologytoday.com, Amy Morin)

1. Establish a New Goal Each Month

Rather than establish a huge resolution to tackle for the next 365 days, set monthly goals for yourself. Perhaps January will be the month you go to the gym before work three times a week, and February will be the month you tackle packing your lunches instead of eating out every day. You might decide to create a 12-month calendar that outlines each month's goal ahead of time, or you may decide to choose your goals month-by-month. The key to success is to pick measurable goals. So rather than saying, "I'll manage my money better this month," commit to a goal like, "I'll save $500 this month." Short-term, realistic, and achievable goals can help you stay motivated.

2. Keep Track of Your Healthy Habits

Stay flexible and leave room for spontaneity by tracking your healthy habits every day. So instead of setting out to accomplish specific things each week or month, you might simply track the healthy choices you make each day. At the end of the day, write down three healthy things you did that day on a calendar. Having a visual display of your accomplishments — even small ones like ordering the salad instead of the burger, or taking the stairs instead of the elevator — will motivate you to keep up the good work. You might also pick a healthy habit that you want to track — like going to the gym. Rather than set out to go to the gym five times a week, simply decide that each time you go, you'll put a marble inside a jar. When the jar gets full, treat yourself to something nice (just not something that will sabotage your progress).

3. Develop a Mantra

Rather than decide that this is going to be the year that you "save more money," create a mantra that says, "I only buy what I need." Then commit to following that mantra, without any strict rules or rigid guidelines. When you're shopping, remind yourself of your mantra. Such a mantra can feel more positive and empowering than a resolution — after all, with a resolution, you either fail or succeed, but a mantra becomes a way of life. Of course, that doesn't mean you won't tune out your mantra and throw caution to the wind sometimes; you will. But if you keep repeating it in your head, the message will sink in, and over time, your behavior will change.

4. Conduct Weekly Experiments

Rather than making yourself engage in grueling habits or depriving yourself of anything fun, decide to make it a year of curiosity: Establish weekly experiments that test out various habits or that challenge you to do new things. One week, you might decide to talk to five strangers every day just to see what happens. If you approach it with an open mind, you might discover that your mood improves, or that you make new friends. Or you might set out to go for a brisk morning walk before you start your work day. You might discover that it gives you more energy throughout the whole day. You can do anything for a week. And you just might discover new strategies that you'll want to turn into regular habits — but you won't know unless you try.

5. Make a Bucket List

Choose a whole bunch of things you'd like to do over the course of the year, whether it's taking a Chinese cooking class or flying in a helicopter over Las Vegas. If you pick small things, you might put 52 items on your list and check one off each week. If you're hoping to do some big things, maybe pick 12, and tackle one each month. Having things to look forward to can boost your mood — and when you feel better, you're likely to do better. When you're enjoying your bucket list items, you might find that you naturally want to get healthy, save money, or be kinder to others.

Change Your Life One Small Step at a Time

These resolution alternatives will remind you to live life to its fullest as you create a healthier, happier life and become your best self one small step at a time.

Anxiety can make your teen’s life miserable.

The teenage years are a stressful time as our children must deal with changes at school, in their relationships, and in their own bodies. Anxiety begins to set in as teens become overwhelmed with fear and worry. If your teen or preteen suffers from anxiety attacks, don’t encourage them to avoid or resist whatever it is that triggers the attacks. Rather, encourage them to invite a panic attack then write through it in a journal. Over time, they can change how their mind processes information. The goal here is NOT to rescue them but to empower them with “coping skills” and help reduce symptoms without medication.

TIPS AND ADVICE TO CONSIDER

Here are things you can do at home to help your teenager manage his or her anxiety:

- Reduce chaos at home (add structure, work on your marriage, establish routines)
- Turn technology off at night (take their cell phone, no computers in bedrooms, etc.)
- Early to bed at night (most crucial time to get “good” sleep is 12:00 midnight—2:00 am)
- Help them eat healthier… less soda and junk food
- Don’t load them up with too many activities. Slow your schedule down.
- Stay calm when your child becomes anxious about a situation or event
- Recognize and praise small accomplishments
- Don’t punish mistakes or lack of progress
- Be flexible and try to maintain a normal routine

Validate their feelings, so that they can understand that it’s okay to feel the way they do.

TRENDS

- Of all the mental disorders, teen anxiety disorders are the most common.
- Anxiety disorders affect one in eight children.
- Anxiety disorders often co-occur with other disorders such as depression, eating disorders, and ADHD, ADD, and OCD.
- If children and teenagers do not receive treatment, excessive anxiety can lead to more complex mental health conditions and may lead to adolescent or adult depression and suicide.
